ON TOP OF THE SCRAP HEAP!

We were pretty proud recently when DeAnne Toto, the Managing Editor of Recycling Today, contacted us to provide the magazine with a story on the importance of lubrication in the recycling industry. Our Product Manager, Dave McDougall, and Account Executive Mike Michaud, with their solid technical background, collaborated to create a story while our friend and customer Randy Jarry, of Moffatt Scrap Iron & Metal Inc., added his ground-level insights into equipment management.

We featured the project in our June blog, where you can also download the complete story. We have to admit, it was nice to be recognized by one of the equipment industry's top trade publications!

Take a look!

Even if you aren't in the scrap industry, this story is worth reading. The scrap yard is a tough place for machinery to make a living, and lessons learned here can be applied anywhere you have heavy equipment with moving parts! You'll find it on our website at www.beka-lube.com/blog/.
